MIAMI- (AP) Clarence Brinson, critically ill, homeless and penniless, died sitting in wheelchairs in a hospital emergency ward last week, and no one noticed for hours.

Brinson and Jordan, like many other destitute elderly people, had been brought to busy Jackson Memorial Hospital to wait until nursing home space could be found.

Officials said Brinson had been waiting three days in the hospital, Jordan for two.

Ten patients like Brinson and Jordan were waiting at the hospital Sunday. They are put in wheelchairs in the hospital's emergency ward to wait for admittance to nursing homes that will accept welfare patients. Officials say that process normally takes two or three days. It can be longer.

"Nurses and nurse assistants feed them three times a day and care for any other needs that boarders may request."

Officials say finding nursing home beds for the indigent is becoming more diffcult because many homes say they can't afford to keep patients for the $13.50 a day the county pays them.

They said the 10 patients waiting Sunday for a nursing bome bed is about average.

MacMillan Bloedel, Canada's largest forest company, said Sunday it is studying the feasibility of building a recycling plant which would have an annual capacity of approximately 100,000 tons of newsprint.

Company president Dennis Timmis said MacMillan Bloedel ships 300,000 tons of newsprint into California annually from its B.C. plants and the recycling mill being studied would be processing a large amount of newsprint originally manufactured in B.C.

"As a British Columbia company we have looked into newsprint recycling in B.C.," Timmis said.

mills in Powell River and Port Alberni to recycle the small volumes of newspapers available there, it would be unrealistic to undertake a large-scale newsprint recycling operation in B.C. when the raw material supply is so inadequate."

The province consumes only about 60,000 tons of news-print annually while California uses about 1.2 millions tons a year. The company said 35 to 40 per cent of the California newsprint would have to be recovered on a continuing basis to make the proposed recycling mill viable.

"We are optimistic of a positive response both in terms of supply and of rewspaper publisher support," Timmis said. "In the San Francisco Bay area previous programs aimed at recycling newspapers have drawn strong support from the public and the media."

B.C. AND YUKON-YOUR POSTAL CODE IS HERE AND IT'S BEAUTIFUL

It's beautiful because it works. It gets you your mail faster than before because now a very fancy computer looks at a combination of numbers and letters and aims it right to your door.

It's beautiful because you can make funny memory rhymes with the Postal Code of your friends (how about this Ottawa code, for example: Ken once had one thought twice - for K1H 1T2?). Or songs. Or whatever.

And it's beautiful because it'll be good until at least 2001 without changes, unlike some we looked at in other countries.

We have sent you a kit containing your Postal Code, explanations, a postage paid address card and Postal Code stickers. In case you haven't received it, please write to your Post Office on a special card that will be sent to you. And when your friends start using your code, and you use theirs, everybody will communicate more easily.

And that's beautiful.

Here's how the Postal Code works. Take K1H 1T2 for example.

MADRID (UPI) today celebrated the 37th anniversary of the inauguration of" Generalissimo Francisco Franco as chief of state with church and civil ceremonies. Wearing the gala uniform of a captain-general of the armed forces, the 80-year-old leader received the compliments of government, church and diplomatic officials in a ceremony at the Palace de Oriente, Madrid's vacated royal palace.

Constantly moving at Franco's right was Juan Carlos, the 35-year-old Borbon prince whom Franco picked as his successor and future king of Spain three years ago. Recent speculation that Juan Carlos might soon assume the throne has been discounted by diplomatic and political circles.

The reception was preceded by a thanksgiving mass officiated by the Cardinal Arch-bishop Vicente Enrique y Tarancon at the Basilica of Francisco el Grande.

one-mile-long sandy beach on the West Coast in the area of Point-No-Point by the provincial government is excellent news. The magnificent western shore - apart from the new national park at Long Beach - has been sadly lacking in public parkland - even access to the seashore was difficult. #### No Government Is an Island

Periodically alarming stories surface that the Gulf Islands are being bought out by Americans or large subdivisions are ruining the environment. The Social Credit government put a 10-acre freezethat is, no subdivision into less than 10-acre lots on the Gulf Islands five years ago and the current NDP government has con-

Now the Legislature's all-party committee on municipal affairs is proposing an Islands Trust to coordinate land use, future growth patterns, and control of development - industrial, commercial and recreational - in the islands. It also recommends a complete ban on all subdivisions south of Denman, Hornby and Lasqueti Islands. until the trust is established. Since Municipal Affairs Minister James Lorimer favors the report, future legislation may closely follow the report's recommendations.

While most British Columbians would agree that the Gulf Islands are a "fragile" environment to be preserved for future generations. they would also agree that the Islanders have a right to their own self government, the same as other regions in the province. The report's six page summary issued by the government this week does not detail how the trust-concept would fit in with regional government or whether it would take over from current regional governments.

At present the islands are administered in part by seven different regional districts-a tacit admission that development and decision making in the islands is a patchwork quilt. The committee's report zeros in on the major problem when it says the islands are too important to be left open to exploitation by real estate developers and speculators.

Clearly the islands need more of a guiding hand than they have had in the past. Perhaps an Island Trust concept is a good idea but it should be carefully wrought so it does not conflict with the principle of local government.

Keep It at Home

When Provincial Transport Minister Robert Strachan promised that any ferry construction would be done in British Columbia, the issue of awarding a Seattle firm $10,000 to draw up conceptual plans for a new ferry faded. But the question still remains; why did the government go to the American firm without giving any B.C. firms first chance?

Ten thousand dollars is a small amount in terms of government expenditure but the principle of the matter looms large, especially when the NDP says more secondary industry and the development of small businessess are among its priorities. While it is true that in the past ferry design contracts have been awarded to American and Danish firms there is no reason why the practice should continue if the expertise is within our own province.

Some American state governments are very careful to ensurethat no foreign firms receive their business when a contract can be awarded within the state. Unless Canadian firms have a branch offire in the state of Alaska, or they perform a function that is not available in the state, then they are frozen out of the bidding. Yet our own provincial government sees nothing wrong in spending taxpayers' dollars to enhance the American economy,

If the government is serious about encouraging secondary industry within the province it should put its money where its philosophy lies. Among those 80-odd bills it hopes to squeeze through at the current session surely there is room for one more saying the province should favor provincial firms if the technology and expertise are available here.

Futile Charade

I may be particularly stupid but when see company profits in all sectors, banks, manufacturing, trust and other financial institutions, oil and mining companies, etc., etc., soaring to unprecedented highs in spite of the unreasonable demands of labor, I am inclined to doubt my sanity when our leaders tell us there is nothing we can do about inflation as it is an international condition which I agcept. Never have profits been higher in the U.S. and Britain and yet I note that the car manufacturers are asking for an increase in the price of their product. Similarly in Britain bank profits are higher than ever and still interest rates are rising. In Canada in spite of fantastic increases of food prices the processing and retail giants are reaping higher profits than ever. In addition land values are out of sight and this makes it most difficult for the average Canadian to own a house. Rents in apartments are increased without any controls-in one rethe board, Apartments built and rented as apartments are being converted to condominium with great distress to the aged and infirm, just for the sale of the 'quick buck'' for the very few.

Of course what Fotheringham says about the Food Prices Review Board is true and nothing-I repeat nothing-will ever be done for the ordinary citizen except a small boost in the old age pension which is immediately swallowed up by rent, food and other increases. Where this will all end is a matter of great con-cern to all, except apparently our representatives in Ottawa. I am sorry that Mrs. Grace McInnis has not resigned as she knows the futility of the whole charade. M. P. B. Wrixon, 318-1680 Poplar Avenue.

Primitive Methods

With regard to recent alarms about sewage on Oak Bay's beaches, I think the municipality could adopt a new slogan; it would go something like this: "Oak Bay; B.C.'s most effluent suburb" or "Mercedes Benzes in the driveways and pollution on the beaches." As a nonnative, I must say I was shocked to see such grossly primitive methods of sewage disposal in what must be one of Canada's "best-fixed" (i.e. financially)

To Oak Bay's credit, two out of five ver outfalls have been diverted since 1996. Hopefully Oak Bayers will - in the pext two years rest assured that their sewage (still raw, mind you) will be dumped into seas off Victoria or Esquimalt, instead of in their own back yard.

The recent improvements at the marina are most welcome in my view. They have served to underline and make painfully obvious a problem that has lain festering for years Anon.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. -- Secre-Tary of State Henry Kissinger quickly cleared up one point this past week. Things are indeed going to be different under his regime - different from the past, and different from predictions for-

When Kissinger first was named to the cabinet post, "instant analysis" was that, because he was Jewish, he would find it hard to deal with the Arab world. His selection, it was said; signalled a deeper American commitment to Israel.

Just the opposite is the case. Kissinger showed himself this past week fully capable of dealing on congenial terms with Arabs. One of his first acts was to invite Arab UN representatives to lunch - and most of them came. They even let it be known they enjoyed it.

'Atmospherics'

This is no small fact. In the Mideast, more than in most areas, "atmospherics" are important. Arab-American atmospheries have been very bad in recent times. It is an item of news that a Jew-ish American secretary of state has im-

Moreover, Kissinger may well be the instrument for an important shift in the emphasis of policy. He is uniquely qualified for the difficult task that any secretary of state would face at this moment of history; the task of hudging, persuading, and pressuring Israel toward a Mideast peace settlement.

Putting pressure on Israel is a very delicate assignment for an American government official. It could be political dynamite.

can President to open the doors to China, hee of irrational criticism for being "soft on communism," soft may require a Jewish secretary of state to knock; heads together in the Middle East. Insofar as this process risks antagonizing dsrael - and it does run that risk - Kissinger's flanks are covered.

It remains, of course, to be seen just how much America's Mideast policy will change. The officially stated policy line has always been neutralism - "evenhandedness." The fact has been calliance with Israel.

The likelihood is that under Kissinger, the fact will begin to converge with the theory: President Nixon's news conference of Sept. 5 foreshadowed it, and Kissinger's gesture to the Arabs this past week looked like confirmation.

. . . things will be different

Israeli spokesmen themselves say they expect a "winter offensive" by Kissinger after the parliamentary elections in Israel next month.

The implication is that they antiquate pressure from Washington to put their conquered territory all their con-quered territory on the bargaining table for disposition in a peace settlement. The fact that some of it has been withheld by Israel has blocked peace ef-

The governing logic behind such an American policy is twofold: *

• That it is overwhelmingly in the American national interest to encourage a peace settlement -- and there will be no settlement unless conquered territory can eventually be released.

• That the Arabs have a powerful. lever which they can apply, if they choose, against American homes, industries, and transportation. The lever is

Responding to hints of a new American policy, the Arabs have begun downplaying their leverage. They have pointed out the stick which they possess, but - thanks largely to King Faisal of Saudi Arabia - they have not begun swinging

The stick, however, is still there. Nothing can change the fact that Arab governments, if they choose, can make American homes very cold this winter, and force gasoline rationing on American highways next spring. No responsible American govenment could ignore this patent fact,

Better Guarantee

Moreover, it will not really be an' unfriendly act to jolt Israel off its present hard-line policy. It is not in Israel's interest to depend on territory, rather than a guaranteed peace settlement, for her security.

Nor is it in her interest to become isolated from world opinion - as even Israeli spokesmen now acknowledge is the case. "The world is getting annoyed with us," an official Israeli "source" recently said in Jerusalem.

Provided a peace settlement were genuinely solids it would be the single greatest gift an American secretary of state could give the state of island.

Israel would eventually be grateful for years.

If the present trend continues many state could give the state of Israel, At any rate, grateful or not, it looks as if Kissinger will try. Copyright 1973 William R. Frye seems, on council ratification of one or two plans, the 1967 Land Use and Transportation Plan, prepared at great cost over a period of five years to cope with Council has approved in principle a series of five steps to implement the second plan and on each step, at monthly intervals, a public hearing will be held.

The first step will wipe out all new highrise apartment construction in Second and succeeding steps will

There are other considerations. # Canadian Plane Sets Record

VANCOUVER (CP) - The prototype of a new Canadianmade light aircraft has set as unofficial altitude world record in its class in the skies

Trident Aircraft Ltd. says Oct the plane is exceeding estimated performance specific at ions and prospective buyers are lining up for production versions.

The craft is a 170-mile-an hour amphibious Trigull 320 flown by veteran Canadian test pilot Paul Hartman.

David Hazlewood, frident president, said that in spite of the good performance so far, Canadian investment does not seem overantious to provide the $2 million needed to put the friguli into production.

The unofficial world record came when Hartman, using oxygen, climbed the Trigull to 25,000 feet — 4.54 miles — to begin control-surface flutter

VICTORIA TIMES, MONDAY, OCTOBER # 1973 Share Sale Probed

VANCOUVER (CP) - The British Columbia Securities Commission has begun an investigation into the sale of 61,450 shares of Geo-Star Resources Ltd. on the Vancouver Stock Exchange after the company was legally declared bankrupt in August.

Geo-Star, a small mining company that turned to the movie-making business in 1972, was declared bankrupt Aug. 8 in the Supreme Court of B.C. Company president Robert Grey says after that date the company was in the date the company was in the hands of the court and it was up to the court to inform the stock exchange.

A stock exchange spokes-man said its listing agree-ment stipulates that when a material change takes place in a company it must be noin a company it must be no-tified. The spokesman said Geo-Star officials should have informed the exchange.

states that a company in bankruptcy still has its direc-tors in charge of its affairs with the exception of handling the assets.

The stock exchange said that Grey, in confunction with Richard McRae, sold 1,000 Geo-Star shares at 10 cents each on Aug. 15, after he had been informed of the company's bankruptcy.

CHINESE LIKE THEIR XIUXII

By JOHN BURNS Special to The Times

PEKING - Airline pilots of their aircraft and do it. Pedicart drivers clamber atop the rear decks of their threewheeled contraptions and do it. Even Foreign Ministry officials do it, though not so publicly. In fact, just about everybody in China has his noontime xiuxi, or rest.

Xiuxi. The very word is. enough to draw a chuckle from a foreigner living in China, who must learn to live with a habit that is as unshakeable as the siesta in Spain and at least as costly in terms of man-hours lost to the country. Find a Chinese who eschews his xiuxi, and you have a rare man indeed.

The standard dictionary definition of the word, rest after work, really doesn't do the xiuxi justice. Pronounced SHEW-SHEE, it would be better defined as a rest, usually involving deep sleep, that occurs at any time between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. A bed is preferred, but any flat sura face, however incongruous,

For the new arrival in Peking's foreign community, seized by the image of the Chinese as a militant, dis-ciplined, industrious people with little time for rest or leisure, there is nothing quite so reassuring as a bicycle ride around the city at noon on a summer's day; when a good portion of the populace lies in the grip of xiuxi.

every street, up every alleyway, men and women of all ages can be seen snoozing. Old men choose a shady spot, often along a low parapet, and curl up with straw hats over their heads. Mothers close their eyes and rest their heads on their shoulders as infants suckle at their breasts; and construc-tion workers stretch out along pre-cast concrete beams, their lunch boxes doing service as pillows.

Perhaps the greatest exponents of the classic xiuxi are the men who keep the city's freight moving. The sun-bronzed veterans who pedal, the three-wheelers deliver their morning's consignment, then settle down atop the empty deck, feet sometimes propped on the handlebars. Peasant carters pull their rigs to the side of the street, lay a trough of oats before the horses, and bunk down atop Truck drivers curl up along their front seats, often with a whole squad of people lying stowed in the trailer behind them. Even steamroller oper-ators find room to snooze inwith a copy of the Communist Party paper The People's Daily spread over their heads to shield them from the sun.

Airline passengers have discovered that the fondness for xuixi doesn't halt at the cockpit, either. After landing for lunch and refuelling at an airport in central China, a diplo aboard one flight watched in fascination as the flight crew clambered down a steel ladder to the tarmac, headed for the shade beneath the fuselage, and curled up around the nosewheel.

The Italian Embassy is only too happy to send its Chinese staff home between 1 p.m. curl up around the nosewheel and 4 p.m., making an honestto-goodness siesta of its xiuxi. But hard-working German diplomats from both sides of the horder tend to disparage the Schlafstunde, regarding it as an imposition on their time.

in finding the xiuxi frustrating. Recently, the administra-tor of one western embassy emerged from the building at 2:30 p.m. to inspect progress on an extension being built by a Chinese work team. To his dismay he found the entire squad splayed out fast asleep, in the shade of a nearby tree.

Many diplomats provide rooms in their apartments for their personal staff-ip terpreters, cooks, drivers and cleaning ladies to have their xiuxi. An intriguing discovery is that many Chinese sleep on their backs, arms to the side, mouths open, showing none of the subconscious apprehensiveness that is supposed to make the average westerner lie guardedly on his side, most diplomats view the xiuxi with a benign eye, such is not always true of visitors admitted to the country for a two- or three-week tour. For them, there can be irritation in the insistence of Chinese guides that every day's program be broken for at least two hours to allow for an adequate xiuxi.

Often, visitors protest that they are not tired and would rather use their precious time productively. A round of verbal shadow-boxing ensues, with the guides insisting that it is their responsibility to care for the health of their charges, and the visitors insisting with equal force that their health is perfectly good and subject only to the threat of too much rest.

Usually, a compromise is effected. The two-hour break stands, but the visitors use it for a walk instead of xiuxi. Nothing is said, but the muides, who seem to have to stick by their charges at all times, appear to be none too happy to be thus deprived of their rest.

'Folly' to Take Mines: Elliott

It would be "absolute folly" in order to exert tax pressure, for Canada to attempt to nanot all of which will benefit tionalize the mineral industry, all its citizens." a convention of provincial mining ministers was told in Vie-

C. R. Elliott, president of the Mining Association of Canada, told mining officials from across the country, that control of mineral development by government agencies would be foolish "because of the inherent risk in it of des-troying one of our great in-dustries and an important bulwark of our whole economic Elliott also is president of Conwest Exploration Co. Ltd.

Mining expertise in Canada is "second to none," Elliott said, "largely as a result of a favorable political and eco-nomic climate over a period of many years."

Canada is not a developing country in the mining discipline, but has a highly developed technology, he said.

"Surely, then, the right course of government must be to nurture this excellence, not dissipate it as might well be the case if governments were to take over.

He made the suggestion that government should consider reduced personal in-come taxes and subsidies on travel costs to urban centres for Canadians in remote re-

"If we are to successfully develop these areas of Canada we must be more concerned with how to enrich the lives of the people who live in them,"

The travel subsidies would be for residents of remote areas who must go to urban centres for specialized services or treatment.

Elliott took exception to the claim that resources "belong to the people."

"When - I hear claims of ownership of resources for the 'people' of a particular province," Elliot said, "Lam inclined to be a perfect to the said of t clined to interpret this in a political sense.

"What is really meant, I suspect is that the political party which happens to be in power provincially is anxious to re-emphasize its trusteeship

Eisenhowers See Silver Lining

WASHINGTON (UPI) David and Julie Eisenhower said in an interview that the American political system ul-timately will benefit from the Watergate scandal.

"I feel that, if anything, Watergate has made people aware of how much we need to do in order to change things," Mrs. Eisehower said in an article published in U.S. News and World Report. "A lot of young people are going to want to be involved in such things as election reforms. From the people I've talked to, I feel that Watergate has made them want to be inmore than ever.

Eisenhower added: "When people in this country have the self-respect and dignity to challenge authority on the scale that it is being chal lenged now - through legitimate processes — it reveals a dynamism in our society that just does not exist in other countries."

Resources, Elliott said, have been developed by individuals and mining corpora-

"The generally favorable geography of much of Canada did, as we know, lead to the discovery of many interesting mineral deposits. But it was only after very ardous, lengthy, risky and costly efforts that some of these resources have become mines."

The two-day conference will discuss mineral policy objectives which were laid down after federal and provincial

Federal Energy, Mines and Resources Minister Donald Macdonald also addressed the conference this morning, telling delegates that while the April meetings were not "a total break-through" in federal-provincial policy relations, the policy objectives formulated were a major step in the right direction.

His own policy priority list,
Macdonald said, is headed by the need to shape mineral development policy in order to emphasize industrial development and diversification.

"Concurrently, mineral poli-cy must reflect the greater diversity of economic opportu-nity among regions through-out Canada while favoring greater Canadian participation and minimizing diverse Macdonald said.

Heroin Addicts Find Way Out In Upper Room

John King, 34, school counsellor, says he knows many drug addicts but not one who doesn't want to break free.

The rehabilitation success rate using psychological counselling runs about 3 per cent. But there's another way which has produced an 80 per cent success ratio, he says.

King is one of the organizers of the Upper Room at 579 Johnson, which he describes as "a Christian coffee house, to provde a witness of the layer of Christ to devoice." the love of Christ to drop-ins," mostly young people.

The society has applied to the province for a grant but has yet to hear from the gov-ernment: That doesn't worry King who says, in effect: "the Lord will provide."

Addicts withdrawing from heroin go through three days of intense pain. One of them, who had a 10-cap a day habit, described it to King as equiv lent to having his arms and legs torn off.

What we want to do is provide this place for withdrawal in an atmosphere of Christfilled ex-addicts who know the

A Christian is the same in a way, says King, only he has found a place within himself to cope with the world.

Anyone trying to get away com heroin has to have something more meanful to replace it. And getting off the drug is just the first step, staying off is an even bigger struggle.

One of the people running the rehabilitation house will be "Joyce," now in her mid-thirties and an addict for 20 years. She was notorious in the drug community, but has been free of heroin for almost two years, said King.

If the average habit was a cap a day ("a very modest estimate") it still means addicts must find $10,000 a day, 365 days a year, to support their habits — by prostitution, stealing, pushing or extortion.

King has talked to a number of church groups about the project. A few people have promised to contrib-ute some of their income. A women's church group has donated a freezer — though there's nothing to put in it yet. Beds, linen and furniture are needed.

Ideally, the group would like to operate a farm, removing withdrawing addicts from their drug environment, hav-ing them work the land and study the Scriptures in a tranquil setting.

King says the Christians in the Victoria community could wipe out the drug problem.

IZMIR, Turkey (AP) - Archeologists have uncovered further evidence that ancient Romans wrestled with the same problems of inflation, price controls and monetary devaluation which plague modern society.

White Slaver Guilty

MIAMI (AP) - A farm Judge Clyde Atkins did not labor contractor has been con-victed in United States dis-trict court here on two of 16 counts of peonage and involuntary servitude.

Joe Brown, convicted Friday, was charged in March after Dade County officers raided an isolated farm labor camp on the fringes of the Everglades.

Police said many of the 27-workers in the camp stated that Brown, 35, was forcing them to work in his crews, contracted out to area farmers, by saying the migrants owed him money.

Some workers said they were paid just a few dollars a week and were beaten if they tried to leave, police said.

Let me ask — have you ever come down at an airport in a meat wagon?

Neither had I until this trip. Just as we were about to land at Toronto's prestigious Malton air terminal, two pretty stewardesses suggested that if I sat still until all passengers were off the plane, they would "put me down" in the meat wagon.

"Meat 'wagon," I ques-tioned, rather dublously.

and an even quicker explanation that the meat wagon was a name ground crews gave to a contraption used to hoist meals aboard planes.

So I sat still until everyone Then, I was escorted to the exit.

There, right at plane level, stood a raised platform with a wheelchair sitting smack in the centre.

Two youths who picked up some bags of food in a downtown lane early Saturday morning ended up in court a few hours later charged with theft under $200.

Mark Raymond Comerford, 18, of 374 Arnot St. and William Otto Thompson, 19, of 2926 Qu'Appelle, told police they thought the food had been cast off as garbage when they found it behind the Keg 'n Cleaver Restaurant, 500

Not so, said the police, who stopped the pair, in the Bay parkade lot. The food, consisting of a 50-lb. bag of potatoes, a box or oranges, a box of mushrooms, a bag of tossed salad, and two bags of chopped onions, was the property of Slade and Stewart.

The youths pleaded guilty. Judge E. F. N. Robinson sus-pended sentence and placed them on six months probation. Williams Quality

Four solid reasons for investing your money at the TD

Want your money to really make money? The TD Bank can help you do it. We have several good investment plans to choose from. And so you'll know a bit about them (even before you come to see us) we've outlined four of our best ones for you here.

Term Deposits explained.

If you have money to spare for a month, a year, or longer—you can invest it with the Toronto Dominion Bank. Just tell us how long we can have it (that's the term), and how much we can have (rhat's your deposit); we'll put it to work at a rate that pays you well.

Six Year Savings Certificates: L. A good place to start.

To statt making it big in investments, you don't need a lot of money. You can buy a TD Sayings Certificate for as low as $6.33.* In six years time, it'll be worth a full ten dollars. And remember, if you need your money ahead of the six year period. we'll be glad to cash it in for you. At a slightly lower, but still attractive rate. Since our Savings Certificates sell for any amount up to $50,000, they naturally have a very wide appeal. Here are four groups of people who've really been pleased with

- · Anyone planning retirement in less than six years.
- · People who want to compound their interest income.
- · Parents investing for their children.

*Price as at September 21, 1973.

Deposit Receipts: What to do with your money L+ while you're making up your mind.

Take a tip from smart corporation comptrollers—Don't leave any large sum of money lying idle. If you have $5,000 or more that you plan on using within the coming year, put it right into a Toronto Dominion Deposit Receipt. Known as "D.R.'s" to the seasoned investor, Deposit Receipts pick up a really high rate of interest in the short run. Buy one for any term from 30 to 369 days. (In the interest of getting top interest, try to predict this term exactly.) Then sit back, assured that you're doing the best by your funds. This is a good plan to follow when you've just sold a house, won a sweepstake, or received a sudden wind. just sold a house, won a sweepstake, or received a sudden windfall. If it's over a hundred thousand dollars, ask your TD Manager for our special rate.

Certificates of Deposit: J. Our most popular one.

If you'd like to sound like a well-informed investor, just say that you're into "Toronto Dominion C.D.'s". These are priced as low as a thousand dollars. And the interest you get (check the table) shows you really know what you're doing. This is table) shows you really know what you're doing. This is paid in April and October. Use it to buy some of the things you've always wanted; or even to reinyest. Certificates of Deposit can be bought for any period from one to five years. (You can even state the number of days you want one for.) And, as with all Toronto Dominion term deposits, you're not locked in. If you want to eash your C.D. early, you can do it. With only a modest reduction of the interest you receive.

Tordom Certificates: The low-cost way to get 4 money into mortgages.

This could be your best money-maker ever. Your money goes into the Tordom Corporation. Which, in turn, invests it in Canadian first mortgages on residential properties. You name the period you'd like to invest for—1, 2, 3, 4 or 5 years. The high interest you get will be credited to you twice a year. Or perhaps you'd like to get your interest monthly. With a five year investment of $15,000 or more, we can arrange this—at an interest reduction of only 1,1. What about cashing your Tordom Certificates in ahead of schedule! Although they aren't pre-encashable, they are transferable. Which means we can sell them for you at the prevailing market rate. And here's a good thing to know: If you should die prior to the maturity of your Tordom Certificate, your estate will not be penalized. The Tordom Corporation will redeem them at the going rate at

Check the chart, then find out more.

Now that you've had our quick course in personal investments, see your TD Manager and find out more. Sit down and let us go over your special requirements. Whether you've got a little money or a lot of money, we'll find ways to help you get the most from it. Once you're into Toronto Dominion Investments, we're sure you'll never look back.

ROCK ERA 'DIED WITH JANIS

HOLLYWOOD (Reuter) For author Myra Friedman the great age of pock is dead and although she finds it dif-ficult to select that era male legendary figures, of its one mythological female she has o doubts.

Miss Friedman, a former publicity agent for rock stars, Janis Joplin who died at the age of 27 in a Hollywood motel room in 1971 from a drug overdose.

Miss Friedman is not the only author to chronicle Janis's wild and tragic life. Before she got her biography out two others already had been published.

Poster companies pour outpictures of Janis with her outrageous feather boas, her wire-rimmed glasses slightly hearing legends like awry, bearing legends like Janis Lives.

Columbia records has published two posthumous long play records of her music and is planning a third. The first two will probably outsell any of the three the company pub-lished while she was alive.

The first of them, Pearl, in-cludes the orchestral version of the eerily-titled song Miss Joplin was rehearsing the day she died and which she was to record next day—Buried Alive in the Blues.
Miss Friedman has chosen that title for her book.

Her death was ruled accidental although Miss Friedman says: "Chronic suicide is what Janis was engaged in throughout her life."

Miss Friedman recalls the Miss Friedman, recalls the days in 1968 when the wild young Texan singer, immersed in the life style and clothing frumperies of San Francisco's Haight Ashbury, finally caught the public imagination and her career texts off

McDonald's Bakery Opens $1.5M Plant Expansion

A $1.5 million expansion of McDonald's Bakery was officially opened Sunday by Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis. The new 24.500 square foot building is adjacent to the bakery at 524 Culduthel, which was constructed in 1967. The older section contains three dough mixers, two of 1,600 pounds and one of 1,300 pounds.

New equipment in the expanded section includes a $175,000 oven baking 5,000 pounds of bread per hour, a $145,000 Unipac for packaging rolls, a $140,000 bread cooler, a 90,000 flour storage system with a capacity of 380,000 pounds of flour and a bread cutter.

The bakery, owned by McGavin Toastmaster Ltd., employs 130 people.

Bread from the bakery goes to Victoria, Nanaimo, Dun-can, Parksville, Port Alberni, Courtenay and Campbell River.

lette Co. said today it has stopped shipment and will withdraw from distribution two new anti-perspirant products which have produced mild inflammatory reactions under additional tests.

Gillette Right Guard Extra Strength and Soft and Dri Extra Strength, on the market less than one month, passed customary pre-market medi-cal tests for irritation, ingestion and inhalation, the cominflammatory reactions.

"Any question arising from test data requires prompt action," said Vincent Ziegler, company chairman. "In line with this policy, we stopped shipment of these two new anti-perspirant products. In addition, we will withdraw them from wholesale and retail inventories, pending further evaluation."

He said the action-on the new products does not affect other Right Guard or Soft and Dri products.

federal governmenbt has prepared the way for a Canadian energy crisis, says Hans Maej, manager of the Canadian Petroleum Association.

Maciej of Calgary said the recent federal tax of 40 cents a barrel on crude oil, in addition to other federal measures, will inhibit exploration for new reserves and could seriously affect Canada's long-term supply.

"This policy probably supplies the last major ingredient for an energy crisis in Canada," he told the weekend annual meeting of the Prairie region Certified Géneral Accountants Association.

Maciei said the crude oil tax, the federal two-price system for oil instituted earlier in the month, and Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed's yow to retailate, has pitched the the oil industry into a period of uncertainty.

Rational industry planning and decisions by investors have been rendered virtually impossible, he said in a panel

Severe government regulasevere government regula-tions already have tended to inhibit the search for oil and gas in the remotes parts of Canada, Maciej said.

VALLEY MOTORS (DUNCAN) LTD. Island Highway South Duncan (604) 746-7145

Designed to keep our highways beautiful and backed to keep you on our side.

There's a certain prestige about the new Matador that quietly states luxury. Distinctive styling such as Matador's used to be expensive, but surprisingly the '74 Matador is a mid-sized car at a mid-sized price. Matador can reflect your imagination and personality in many ways.
Under the hood the choice is yours with six engines available, from a standard economical fix right up to an optional 401 cubic inch V8. Then there's the exciting new Matador "X" illustrated at left with features such as rally striping, slot style wheels, Torque-Command 3 speed automatic transmission and a responsive 304 cubic inch V8. Or consider the soft-spoken elegance of the Matador Brougham, the top-of-the-line Matador with all the refinements of a very special luxury car. There's even the ultimate sophistication of the exclusive Oleg Cassini designed Custom Trim Package available as an option on the Matador Brougham. Featuring a vinyl roof and distinctive copper trim.

Inside you will enjoy the luxury and comfort of copper coloured deep plush carpeting and knit fabric seats in midnight black with a classic blending of rich copper accents.

But we believe it takes more than good looks and luxury to make a beautiful car. We also believe in something to back that car. Namely our Buyer Protection Plan.

It means that when you buy a new 1974 Matador from an American Motors Dealer, American Motors guarantees, except for tires, to have repaired or replaced any part it supplies that's defective. And this Guarantee is good for 12,000 miles or one entire year from the date the car is first used, whichever comes first. See your American Motors Dealer for full particulars.

What it amounts to is a new way to keep our highways beautiful with something very solid

Even Slightest Light Can Ruin a Poinsettia

Just about now is time to think seriously of getting held-over Poinsettia plants into their Christmas color. Commer-cial growers do it regularly every year, but the plants are not considered by them as anything more than short-term gift

Where the Poinsettia in its original form is native and in places where it grows as a cultivated shrub outdoors, the nights are long and fairly cool from September to March, and the days short, with plenty of warm sunshine.

Under these conditions, the tiny greenish flower buds are formed; the scarlet bracts begin to grow and take on the familiar intense coloring for the winter months.

The commercial greenhouse grower must duplicate the long hours of fairly cool darkness and short sunny days by providing complete darkness from dusk until dawn.

If he wants the plants ready for sale before the middle of December, the complete darkness must be provided (with black cloth shading) from about four in the afternoon until eight the following morning; starting earlier in September.

Notice the word "complete" — this means that it is the hours of continuous unbroken darkness which triggers the formation of buds on the Poinsettia and results in the red bracts making their appearance.

The switching on of an electric light, a flashlight, a car's lighted headlights sweeping across them, or a glow from a street light—any of these disruptions of continuous darkness has a delaying effect on these plants.

In the home, the only place safe from lights being switched on, even for a few seconds, may be in a cupboard. Enough space is needed that the leaves are not crowded, and

You may have a room completely darkened with heavy drapes or dark blind, somewhat cooler than the rest of the home because the door is always closed at night.

The statement "complete, unbroken darkness from dusk il dawn from now until the scarlet bracts are well formed." is a simple way of condensing this information. During the day, see that the plant has plenty of sunshine and temperature around 70 deg. F.

An old plant is not considered so easily colored as a first year, single stem plant. That is why you find three short, single stem cuttings growing in the pot for a good saleable plant.

Branched plants do not normally color so well nor develop such large bracts, a point in favor of young single stem Botanically the Poinsettia is Euphorbia pulcherrima (meaning "very beautiful"), one of more than a hundred species of which are grown 10 or so in our northern gardens and greenhouses. A few become weedy in North America when introduced as ground cover. Another is the pretty annu-al Snow-on-the-Mountain, Euphorbia marginata.

No trouble to flower these, for they are native to areas with day and night periods approximating our own, though they do their best when summer is warm, sunny and rather dry, although I suspect that the lack of clouds is of more im-

It is with the natives from the areas of longer periods of darkness that we must resort to artificial procedures to get the results we want.

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

In retrospect, West's two discards in today's deal would be approved of by all bridge players as the only logical discards to make. Yet, at the believe that very few of our nation's players would have made both of these discards which happened to be the only ones that could have defeated South's game contract. Sitting West was the late Olive Peterson, of Philadel-

East naturally shifted to a club at trick four, which declarer ruffed with the queen.
Mrs. Peterson's heart jack was now promoted into a winner, and it eventually took the setting trick. Of course, if declarer had trumped low on East's club return, West would have over-trumped with the ten of hearts.

From West's point of view, when East won the opening lead with the spade queen, it marked the ace and king of minimum spaces as being in East's side, 88 feet.

that she would be called upon to make two discards on West's two forthcoming spade leads.

The first discard of the queen of clubs didn't hurt at all - with the exposed king in dummy, the queen was a useless card. When the king of spades was led by East at trick three, Mrs. Peterson fully appreciated that the ace. of clubs "almost surely" rated to win a trick—if South had a club. But "almost surely" is not a certainty. I she tossed away the ace of clubs, it would be perfectly obvious to East that she had no more clubs—and the there clubs - and the then-guaranteed return of a club would create a trump winner for her. So she discarded the club ace, and thereby made it an absolute certainty that the contract would be defeated.

club ace had not been discarded, declarer would have fulfilled his contract. Whatever East returned at trick four, either declarer or dummy would capture. The three top trumps would then be led, gathering in the defenders' trumps. The rest of the tricks would now belong to declarer.

West Cowtown-In Quebec

ST. TITE, Que. (CR)

Late each summer this small
St. Maurice Valley community is transformed into a wild west cowtown during the annual "Festival Western."

And for the rest of the year, the town, 100 miles northeast of Montreal, maintains a con-nection withe cowboy culture — as the home of Canada's largest cowboy boot manufacturer, G. A. Boulet Ltee. Roger Boulet, president of the firm, says he often heard people ask "how a Quebecer who never rode a horse thought of producing cowboy An accident, he says, led his firm into production of what has been called "the Cadillac of western boots." In 1964, the firm was bankrupt following a long

THE OTHER PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY

STANFORD, Mont. (AP)
What began as a joyride aboard a twin-engine airplane ended in death for eight residents of this small central Montana town.

The Cessna 402 lost altitude and crashed into a hilltop Saturday night.

"They were just up for a little joy ride," said county sheriff Charles Loberg.

"They were all friends who just got together at the airport for a ride."

Lang's Defence Praised

WILKIF, Sask. (CP) — Justice Minister Otto Lang won a standing ovation Saturday pight after spending more than two hours defending federal feed grains policy before an audience of more than 300 doubting farmers.

Despite some critical questions and the strong support in this area for the National Farmers Union—one of Langs' strongest critics—he won occasional bursts of applause during his remarks and only about 20 persons remained seated after the chairman asked the audience to express their appreciation for his coming.

As he had done earlier in Brandon, Lang hammered home his message that the agriculture products board is the farmer's friend.

Several questioners expressed concern that the board, which will buy feed grain at prices lower than the total paid by the Canadian Wheat Board, will be a competitor to the wheat board.

Lang rejected statements that the agriculture board would be a competitor, saying the agriculture board will not sell or move grain except as the wheat board directs.

Lang even won applause when he defended the controversial 1970 LIFT program lower inventory for tomorrow that took wheat row, — that took wheat acreage out of production.

"We were never likely to get the world to pay us a decent price for grain while we were sitting on a mountain of it."

Lang's reception in this small town 100 miles west of Saskatoon, contrasted with his Brandon reception, where was viryually no applause for him, but a significant amount for his critics.

B.C. Union Against CLC Pullout

VANCOUVER (CP) B.C. division of the Canadian Union of Public Employees has warned its national executive against pulling out of the Canadian Labor Congress because of a dispute between the two bodies over certification of B.C. government em-

Harry Greene, B.C. division president and a national vice-president, said the government employees' decision to remain outside of CUPE must be recognized because "we have no moral right to deny them that choice or to try to keep them out of the house of

In 1967 the CLC granted C.U.P.E. jurisdiction over all provincial government employees, with the exception of those in B.C. who are members of the B.C. Government Employees Union, a direct affiliate of the CLC.

board chairman Peter Bunn told the Times today. "We hope by the end of this year to have a very strong endorsation to take to the gov ernment," said Bunn. The provincial government must approve the new bargaining unit.

If the government approves it, said Bunn, the joint bargaining with the B.C. Teachers' Federation would start next fall for the 1975 contracts. "I personally fully endorse and I feel sure the board will," he said.

An earlier plan to begin joint negotiations this fall has been scrapped.

This plan was presented to Vancouver Island school board representatives a week ago by B.C. School Trustees Association staff at a meeting in Nanaimo

Bunn critized the first plan at the meeting, saying it was "too much too soon."

He admitted that giving up their negotiating powers will mean the boards lose some local autonomy. However, "the annual breakdown in board-teacher rapport is so damaging," and this would be avoided if boards aren't directly inolved in teacher salary negotiations. "The educatioal benefits far outride it," Bunn said of the loss of autonomy.

Norma Sealey, salary chair-man for Saanich school board, gave cautious support to the joint bargaining idea.

"We went along with the idea of investigating it," she said. "As far as we were concerned it was just looking into the possibility."

However, Sealey said the resolution passed on the week-end "urged" school boards to delegate their authority over teacher salary bargaining "as soon as possible and no later than Dec. 31."

Salary chairmen from British Columbia's 74 school boards agreed unanimously at a weekend meeting in Vancouver to ask their boards to negotiate as one body on next year's teachers' salaries.

School boards will be asked to give up their negotiating powers with teachers by Dec 31, Greater Victoria school board chairman Peter Bunn told the Times today "We hope by the end of this year to have a very strong endorsation to take to the government," said Bunn. The provincial governmen must approve the new fbargaining unit. If the government approves it, said Bunn, the joint bargaining with the B.C. Teachers' Federation would start next fall for the 1975 contracts

"I personally fully endorse , and I feel sure the board will," he said.

An earlier plan to begin joint negotiations this fall has been scrapped.

This plan was presented to Vancouver Island school board representatives a week ago by B.C. School Trustees Association staff at a meeting in Nanaimo.

Bunn criticized the first plan at the meeting, saying it was "too much too soon."

He admitted that giving up their negotiating powers will mean the boards lose some local autonomy.

However, "the annual breakdown in board-teacher rapport is so damaging," and this would be avoided if boards aren't directly volved in teacher salary nego-

White Slaver Guilty

MIAMI (AP) - A farm labor contractor has been convicted in United States dis-trict court here on two of 16 counts of peonage and involuntary servitude...

Joe Brown, convicted Friday, was charged in March after Dade County officers raided an isolated farm labor camp on the fringes of the Everglades

Police Said many of the 27 workers in the camp stated that Brown, 35, was forcing them to work in his crews, contracted out to area farmers, by saying the migrants owed him money.

Some workers said they were paid just a few dollars a week and were beaten if they tried to leave, police said.

One-Man Rule In 470 Ways

WASHINGTON (Reuter) A special senate committee warned Saturday that the United States could be put under authoritarian rule by a president who chose to exercise some 470 forgotten but still operative laws.

Some of the laws are 40 years old and were modelled on emergency powers, influenced by Britain's First World War legislation, the committee said.

The so-called special senate committee on the termination the b national emergency issued its warning following a year-long study of laws, many of them obscure and litthe known, which have been passed by Congress, primarily at the request of presidents, since the depression of the 1930s.

The 470 laws examined by the committee date back to a declaration of national emergency by President Franklin Roosevelt on March 5, 1933, when he temporarily closed the nation's banks.

Senator Frank Church, an Idaho Democrat, and Charles Mathias, a Maryland Republi-can, co-chairmen of the committee said:

DESERT CLAIMS TRIO IN AUTO

NOUAKCHOTT, Mauritania (Reuter) - Three young French travellers, two of them girls, died of thirst and exhaustion in the Mauritanian Desert last week after their car bogged down in the sand.

Their tragic story became known here when their bodies were brought to the capital of this West African country Mon-day to await return to France.

The victims, aged between 21 and 27, accompanied by a fourth Frenchman, and a Mauritian guide, set off to cross the desert, despite the intense heat and advice to turn back. They took with them about 14 gallons of water which ran out when their car became bogged down in the sand 80 miles north of the town of Tijikja.

The surviving Frenchman and the guide set out on foot for help and eventually reached a water hole. But when they returned with camel herdsmen, they found their companions
